Editorially Speaking . . .

Teachers everywhere are waking up to the fact that America's schools are under attack. Sometimes the attack is planned and continuous; more often it is aimless and sporadic. But always it is damaging. As the adjoining article shows, Illinois teachers colleges are by no means exempt from such criticism. The University of Illinois is a center of conflict and the re-organized schools of central and south central Illinois have aroused storms of protest and rancor.

What is the meaning of these attacks?

Space here is adequate only to raise a few questions and suggest a few principles.

First of all, each of us should try to understand the courses of the attack. In America the reservoir of faith in education has been tremendous—faith that the schools can check social evils and make progress inevitable.

This very excess of faith, held by persons who have not recognized that by their very nature the schools are more likely to reflect the current culture than to lead in its change, may be one of the basic courses of the attack. People cannot avoid seeing America's failure to meet the challenges of a new cultural era. In disillusionment, laymen blame the schools for the social, political and ethical evils of the day. Education is being made a scapegoat.

Progressive educators, led by the late John Dewey, have tried to give members of the profession a glimpse of the demands of the new cultural era brought on by

Caught in a Crossfire

(The following is a condensation of the lead article appearing in the May, 1952, issue of Education Today, a quarterly bulletin of the Public relations personnel of Eastern Illinois State College, Western Illinois State College, Northern Illinois State Teachers College, and Illinois State Normal University.)

by the Staff of Education Today

Heckled by demands for services on the one hand and pressure to restrict their programs on the other—criticized for inadequacies and yet threatened by limitations in the name of economy, the teachers colleges recognize an overwhelmingly important responsibility of the moment as most essentially theirs.

The enrollment at the teachers colleges can decline—even more than draft calls justify—and the battle to maintain and upbuild standards for teachers can be abandoned—must be, if adequate staff, plant and equipment are not forthcoming both for the college and for the public schools where their graduates are expected to teach.

Democracy is the business of the schools—of teachers; and that is where the teachers colleges come in. The provision of teachers for the schools is their special assignment.

There are, of course, other colleges which produce teachers—and more power to them! Only one-half of Illinois teachers have attended teachers colleges. But only the teachers colleges are set up with the preparation of teachers as a major purpose!

Other colleges and universities specialize in research, in scholarship, in preserving arts of the past, or in producing generally well educated graduates. (Continued on page 22)

All-Star Eastern Scholars Make High Honor Lineup

There is a strange fascination about all-star teams. Everyone knows they are unjust, and sometimes they are frankly absurd. But we like to read 'em and laugh.

With this issue of the Alumnus we offer a new kind of all-star team, based not on athletic prowess but on academic achievement. It has all of the familiar injustices of all-star athletic teams, plus a few unique ones of its own. But we can't resist writing it.

We base the venture on the kind of reasoning that leads sports scribes to figure batting averages to the third decimal point. We would like to figure brain power to the tenth decibel, but we have to use grades as our measuring stick and we realize how much more prominent Eastern profs are in the making of grade averages than official scorers are in the making of batting averages. So don't take this article too seriously.

There's not much doubt about Eastern's all-time academic all-star. He's James Edward Gindler, '50, now working toward the Ph. D. in Chemistry on a fellowship at the University of Illinois. Big Jim is the only student who, in four years at Eastern, garnered A's in every academic course he took. That record is unique, at least in the "modern era." The registrar's lists of honors and high honors winners goes back no further than 1934, and we assure you we didn't look through 3,000 permanent individual grade records to compile this team.

Jim has only one close male competitor. He is Raymond Earl Metter, '48, who slipped from the straight A trail only once in four years.

There are some interesting similarities between these two brilliant students. Both were anything but brinds. They were campus leaders in every way. For example, they played tackle on some good Panther football teams. Big and affable, both probably missed being great on the gridiron only because they didn't want to hurt anybody. Both are war vets. Both married Eastern grads. Both served as presidents of their respective social fraternities. Both now hold fellowships at state universities and are working toward doctorate degrees. Both have wide interests, but science and mathematics claim their closest attention. Gindler majored in chemistry and took minors in mathematics and physics. He was awarded the M.S. degree last year. Metter majored in math and is now studying geology on a doctoral fellowship at Ohio State University. He received the M.S. degree this June.

Jim's extra-curricular activity list reads as follows: Kappa Sigma Kappa 1, 2, 3, 4, Treasurer 1, President 2; Student Council, President 3; Math Club, Vice-President 2; Football 2, 3, 4; Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities 3, 4; Campus Leader 3; Lord Scholarship Winner 3; Kappa Mu Epsilon 2, 3, 4. He also played in the band for a couple of seasons.

Gindler stories are legion, and include one which shows the ease with which he mastered his academic courses. On the evenings before exams he would often take time off from his own work to coach some of his less gifted fraternity mates for the ordeal.

Mrs. Gindler is the former Marguerite Rhodes, a member of Delta Sigma Epsilon. She is teaching at Arcola High School while Jim continues his studies.

Ray Metter was at least as active in extra-curricular matters as was Gindler while on campus. He edited the News for a time, served as president of Sigma Tau Gamma, played football a couple of years, and like Gindler was elected to

All-Time All-Star

Who's Who and the Warbler Campus Leaders section.

Mrs. Metter is the former Elaine Hanson.

This summer Ray is with a University of Ohio geology group doing a survey near Ephraim in Utah. He will return to his teaching and studies at Columbus this fall.

There are 62 other members of our all-Eastern all-star academic team. They are all of the B. Ed. graduates who won high honors during the period from 1934 through 1952, an average of only 3.5 persons per year. During this period some 2,000 degrees were awarded by Eastern, so our team is indeed a select group.

One woman tied Ray Metter's accomplishment. Marguerite Little did it in English and languages in 1943. Miss Little is now a professor at the state teachers college at River Falls, Wis., having taken her Ph. D. at the University of Illinois on an assistantship.

Clara Louise Balmer, '36, is the only person who, during this 18 year period, completed four years with just two B's in academic work. She is now the wife of Walter Treece, '37, who is doing statistical quality control work at the University of Wisconsin while he completes his doctorate. Mrs. Treece is the mother of Margaret Ann, 7, and Donna Lucille, 4. For amusement she grades USAFI matn papers for the University. She taught in several Illinois high schools before her marriage and got in two summers of graduate study at the University of Illinois.

A number of students have gone through the mill with just three B's. They are Cecil Warren Elam and Wilma Lorene Nuttall, both Class of 1936; June Eloise Bubeck, '48; Jahala Foote, '50; and Frank Alan Fraembs and Norma Louise Metter, both Class of 1952.

Elam is now teaching math at Morton High School and Junior College, Cicero. He holds the M.S. from the University of Illinois and is studying toward the M. Ed. A bachelor, he has developed several hobbies, including photography and electronics of several varieties. He has tape recorded Morton High orchestral concerts on his own professional sound equipment.

Miss Nuttall has taught high school Latin and mathematics at her home town of Robinson, Ill., since graduation. She holds the M. A. from the University of Colorado. She is justifiably proud of the publications she has advised at Robinson and is known as the best red-headed basketball scorekeeper in the Eastern Illinois League. The News 'N' Everything has received All-American rating (highest possible) from the National Scholastic Press Association six times under her guidance, a unique record, and Robinson High School teams have perennially dominated the El League. Wilma claims no credit for the latter.

Miss Bubeck married James Giffin, '46, an assistant professor of business education at Eastern, and has been teaching in the elementary system at Kansas, Ill., since her graduation. Mr. Giffin will be on leave for doctoral study at Northwestern next year.

Miss Foote married Ray DeMoulin, '50, after taking her master's degree in speech on a fellowship at the University of Illinois. While husband Ray coaches Albion athletic teams, Jahala takes her speech students to district and sectional speech meets. This summer she will be in Michigan for resort work.

Frank Fraembs majored in zoology and minored in botany and chemistry. A brother, Donald Herbert, majored in physics and math and finished with four B's and the remainder A's in 1950. Don has worked toward the M. A. in zoology on an assistantship at the University of Illinois this past year and Frank has won a similar honor in entomology for 1952-53.

Miss Metter completed her work in speech with English and social science minors. She has accepted a fellowship in general speech at the University of Illinois for the coming year. Norma is a sister to Ray. Their father, Dr. Harry L. Metter, is director of teacher training and placement at Eastern.

Other high honors winners for whom the Alumni Office has information are as follows:

1935—William Byron Bails is a senior pilot with Pan-American Airways. His address is at 534 Sevilla Ave., Coral Gables 34, Miami, Fla. Robert Allen Evans at last report was living at 629 Lind, Quincy, Ill. He holds the M. A. from the University of Illinois. Lealyn Burr Clapp is an associate professor of chemistry at Brown University. He received the Ph. D. from the University of Illinois in 1941.

1936—Fern Tait is now Mrs. A. R. Bletsch and at last report was living at 327 S. Greenbay Rd., Highland Park, Ill. Florence Elizabeth Wood married George Buck and lives at 1636 N. Gilbert St., Danville, Ill. Reuben Merle Allard has taught for many years in the Noble, Ill., High School. He took the M. A. in history at the University of Illinois in 1937.

1937—Alice Evelyn Reynolds is Mrs. Russell Zimmerman of Cooksville, Ill.

1938 — Clarice Cunningham is Mrs. Ernest O. Lombardi of San Francisco, Calif. She has been teaching first grade at Richmond, Calif.

1939—Robert Edward Hallowell is teaching French at the University of Illinois. He received the Ph. D. there in 1942, having studied on a fellowship in French, and did graduate study at the University of Geneva, Switzerland, in 1947-48. Hallowell was a war department investigator at Wiesbaden, Germany, from 1945 through 1947. Mary Jane Kelly, now Mrs. Alfred E. Kayes, taught in New Berlin, Ill., and Hammond, Ind. She has one child, Marianne, and expects another in August. The Kayes live in Columbus, O. Grace Genevieve Thompson is now Mrs. Ernest E. Bair and has been living at 304 N. Fell Ave., Normal, Ill. Grace taught for several years, and became principal of the Washington School in Urbana in 1948. Aline Mae Claar, now Mrs. Harry Butcher, Jr., of Western Springs, Ill., has three children. The youngest was born May 16 of this year. Aline is doing commercial baking on a small scale as a hobby and teaches an adult baking class.

Retiring Faculty Teach 133 Years

Four Eastern faculty members who have been with the college for a combined total of 133 years and who will retire this fall were given a special recognition dinner by the faculty on May 24.

The four are Miss Lena B. Ellington, assistant professor of social science, Eastern State High School; Miss Edith P. Levake, assistant professor and eighth grade critic, elementary laboratory school; Mrs. Ida Stevens Castle, assistant professor and seventh grade critic, elementary laboratory school; and Dr. Charles P. Lantz, athletic director.

Miss Ellington and Mrs. Castle came to Eastern in 1920. Dr. Lantz came in 1911 and Miss Levake began her teaching duties at Eastern in 1924.

Summer Enrollment Figure Reaches 594

Final enrollment figures for the summer session at Eastern list a total of 594 students, of which 99 are working toward the M. S. in Education Degree.

One hundred thirteen of the students are veterans; women students number 358, while 236 of the enrollees are men.

Summer school theme is "Problems of Communication." Speakers in the field of communication scheduled to lecture during the summer session include Dr. A. A. Crabbe, professor of education, Body College; Curtis McDougall, professor of journalism, Northwestern University; and Dr. Charles Morris, University of Chicago.

New Dormitories To Open Sept. 9

Two new dormitories will open for occupancy on September 9 at Eastern. They will each house 156 students. Women will reside in Lincoln Hall and men will occupy Douglas Hall.

Room, board, linen and laundry facilities will be provided for $14.50 per seven-day week. Opening date for the residence halls will be the first day of Freshman week.

A deposit of $10 is required with each reservation for a room. Should the reservation be cancelled before August 29, 1952, the deposit will be returned. Students registering early will have their choice of rooms.

The dormitories are located across Fourth street from the Health Education Building.

Field Study Group To Visit Northwest

The 1952 Field Study tour will be a three-week expedition through the Great Plains and Rocky Mountains area. Leaving Charleston August 4, the study group will return August 23.

Under the direction of Dr. Byron K. Barton, head of the geography department, the traveling students will visit the driftless area of Wisconsin, Illinois, Iowa and Minnesota (an area "missed" by glacial deposit), the Mississippi palisades, the Minnesota river, outlet of glacial Lake Agazzi, the Badlands of South Dakota, the Black Hills, Mt. Rushmore, Devil's Tower, Yellowstone National Park, and many other points of interest.

Coleman Gives Unique Course About Lincoln

A graduate course devoted exclusively to the study of Abraham Lincoln, which is being offered at Eastern Illinois State college this summer is the only course of its kind in the country, according to

Dr. Charles H. Coleman

Dr. Charles H. Coleman, noted Lincoln authority and instructor of the course.

Dr. Coleman, head of Eastern's social science department, said that a Lincoln seminar on the graduate level had formerly been offered at the University of Illinois under the tutelage of Professor James G. Randall but had been discontinued since his retirement.

"An undergraduate course devoted to the study of Lincoln is offered at Lincoln Memorial University, Harrogate, Tenn.," he said, "but I know of no other being offered on the graduate level at the present time."

Long a collector of Lincolniana, Dr. Coleman has been conducting extensive research during the past two years on the subject of Lincoln's associations with Coles County. He is a member of the Abraham Lincoln Association and the Illinois Historical Society.

Alumni, Friends Pay Tribute To Lantz At Jubilee Dinner

"I can call them all by name," said Dr. Charles P. Lantz as he greeted the more than 300 former lettermen who attended the Lantz Jubilee on May 18.

They came from seven states and every section of Illinois and presented almost every graduating class between 1911 and 1951, but as Dr. Lantz said in the Spring issue of the Eastern Alumni, "There is not a team good or bad of which I cannot recall personalities." Some he had had almost daily contact with; others he had not seen for many years; but he knew them all.

It was a great day for the man who has been Eastern's first and only athletic director for 41 years. The former lettermen, through the Jubilee Committee, presented him with a check for $1200 and gave to his wife a beautiful copper coffee urn; but their greatest tribute to the "Grand Old Man" was their presence, for it was a testimonial of the high regard in which he was held by the men he had coached. "If I have taught some of these boys how to play the game, I did what I set out to do," he once said; and, observing those who returned to pay tribute to him, he could well say, "I did what I set out to do," for the list of names in the guest book tells too well that his charges of past years had learned "how to play the game."

Among the guests were:

1910—Bruce Rardin, Charleston,

Ill.

1911—V. A. Jones, Newton, Ill.

1912—Ciney Rich, Decatur, Ill.;

Eight Game Football Card Set For 1952

Homecoming, Oct. 25

A Homecoming game with Southern Illinois University on October 25 features the 1952 football schedule, so far as alumni are concerned. Last year the Panthers inundated the Salukis in the opening minutes of play, setting an all-time record with four touchdowns in six minutes. Other oddities of this strange affair were the fact that acting coach Rex Darling received a serious knee injury on the first play when an Eastern runner was tackled in front of the bench, and during a time out some prankish youngsters swiped the game ball and escaped before the local Carbondale officialdom was aware of the theft. The final score of this freakish fray was 47-19 as Darling cleared the Eastern bench.

All of the eight grid foes this year were on the schedule last year, when the Panthers racked up a very creditable 4-2-2 season, averaging four touchdowns per game. All six of the other conference teams are on the card and half of these games will be at home. Millikin, last opponent in 1951, is first on the fall schedule, and will be seeking revenge for the 46-6 spanking administered last November. The other non-conference opponent is Northwest Missouri, a 27-21 victim last year. Dr. Lantz hopes to fill an open date, November 8, with an Indiana college. The game with Central Michigan on Oct. 4 is tentative.

Alumni Down Varsity Nine 7-6 For First Win in Annual Classic

An alumni team climaxed Lantz Day Jubilee festivities with an upset 7-6 victory over Coach Lantz' varsity squad. It was the first victory in the history of the annual classic for the alumni.

It was also the first time in the last three years that they were able to tally any runs. Bill Glenn, '41, broke the three-year drouth when he tallied the first run in the third inning.

The varsity built up a 3-1 lead after four innings of play but the "old-timers" fought back into the lead in the top half of the fifth inning with a three-run rally.

The Panthers bounced back in the bottom half of the fifth with a three-run splurge of their own to grab a 6-4 lead. The former Lantzmen then scored a single run in the top of the sixth and two in the seventh to clinch the initial win.

Ray DeMoulin, '50, Okey Honefenger, '36, and Jules DeBouck, '51, all former mound aces under Coach Lantz, limited the varsity to just five hits.

Big guns offensively were Bill Glenn and Art Glad, '49, as each pounded out two hits. Glenn fashioned his safeties in just two appearances at the plate while Glad collected his in four times at bat.

John W. Malsey, Penn State Grad, To Succeed Lantz

Dr. John W. Masley, 37, will become the second athletic director in Eastern's history when he comes to Charleston in August to take over his new duties. Dr. Masley will succeed Dr. Charles P. Lantz who has been athletic director since 1911. Dr. Lantz will retire September 1.

Currently director of the graduate program in physical education at Penn State college, Dr. Masley will take over as director of collegiate athletics and physical education for men with the rank of full professor.

A graduate of Northern Illinois State Teachers college in 1946, he received the Master's degree from the University of California in 1947. In 1950 he took the doctorate at Penn State.

invite you all to visit me at 910 Eleventh Street when you come to Charleston.

Editor's Note: The quote used in the opening paragraph of the story was borrowed from Harrison Read, Jr., '50, sports editor of the Charleston Daily Courier and appeared in the May 20, 1952 issue of that newspaper.

Fortieth Squad

The fortieth Eastern baseball team coached by Dr. Charles P. Lantz completed the 1952 season with an overall record of seven wins and eight losses. In conference play, they ended the season with a 5-5 record.

Baseball Team Splits Season

A twin loss to Southern at the end of the season dropped the Panther nine to the fourth slot in the conference standings with a 5-5 record. Of the complete season's schedule of 15 games, the squad won seven and lost eight.

In conference play, the only winning pitchers for Eastern were Don Brumleve, 3-2, and Harry Moeller, 2-1. Maurice Hemphill won two and lost two, while Lyle Button lost three games without a win.

The Panthers fell below the .500 mark with two wins and three losses in non-conference games, losing three out of four against service teams.

Coach Charles P. Lantz completed his 40th year as baseball coach at Eastern. He will retire September 1.

Suprise Ending

After winning only two matches in 11 starts this spring, Coach Rex V. Darling's "clutch playing" tennis squad grabbed a surprising third in the conference meet at Ypsilanti, Mich.

Coach Rex V. Darling's tennis team, picked by the experts to grab the cellar position in the 1952 IIAC tennis meet at Ypsilanti May 23-24, gave an almost repeat performance of their amazing capture of the runner-up position last year by finishing third behind Normal and Western.

Last season, Darling's netmen went into the conference meet not having won a single conference match and with only two season victories, both over Greenville College. This year, the squad had won no conference matches and had won only two victories, one over Greenville College and the other over Elmhurst; but they fooled the handicappers and landed in the number three spot.

Keeping in touch

Class of 1909

Lida Hostetler (Mrs. Russell Shriver), '09, former correspondent for classes 1905-1909 and her sister, Ruth Hostetler, '08, former Eastern faculty member now on disability leave, spent the winter in Tuscon, Ariz., and decided to take up permanent residence there. Their new address is 1441 East Edison St. Phone number is 6-2628.

"She (Ruth) is spending the summer in Charleston, selling her residence at 219 Taylor St. and visiting with friends," writes Mrs. Shriver. "She has been guest at luncheons given in honor of others who are retiring this spring. Her plans are to visit a few days with Miss Winnie Davis Neely in Athens, Tenn., (also on disability leave) and relatives in Wisconsin."

"Just to show how alumni can keep in touch: Grace Milholland, '10, and her husband, Arthur Riche, and another couple from Freeport, Ill., took a trip to the Southwest during the winter and stayed overnight in Tuscon. Grace called me on the phone, and I asked how she had found me.

"She said that Arthur had seen Harry Huber, '09, in Chicago and Harry told him that Ruth and I were in Tuscon for the winter. Grace didn't find my name in the telephone directory so she called for information. When told that my name was not listed she asked if Ruth Hostetler's name was registered."

Oliver C. Hostetler, '09, and wife of Evanston, Ill., spent the weekend, May 23-25, with his sister, Ruth. His address is 1510 Pitner Ave., Evanston, Ill. Summer address is Long Lake, Marine Route, Wapaca, Wis.

Ethel Brown, '09, has retired as principal of the Lowell School in Mattoon, Ill. With her retirement, but three of the class of 1909 are still teaching: Irene Degenhardt, 1119 State St., Alton, Ill. in Alton High School; Myrtle Davis (Mrs. John R. Snider) in East High School, Denver, Colo. Her address is 1656 Jackson St., Denver, Colo.; and Oliver C. Hostetler, Evanston Township High School.

Hazel Willson Thompson, '12, writes from 15515 South St. Andrews Place, Gardena, Calif.: "While visiting my daughter, Mrs. Ruth Thompson Mills and family here in Gardena, and also many dear friends of mine in Los Angeles, I am having a wonderful time. While motoring around last Sunday, we enjoyed seeing the beautiful homes, drives, and flowers in the 'Palos Verdes Hill' section, also the ships in dock at Wilmington and the Pacific Coast line for a few miles. I've been in this vicinity for three months and expect to return to Mattoon in June."

Class of 1916

Flossie Wiley, '16, was honored in her home community of Urbana, Ill., recently by having a new elementary school named for her. Her address is 205 West Elm, Urbana, Ill.

Born near Kansas, Ill., Miss Wiley graduated from Kansas High School in 1908. "I had since childhood talked of being a teacher, but it did not seem possible I could attend college," she writes. It seemed to be an idle dream until Miss Ewalt of Eastern stopped one day for lunch and assured me that I could become a teacher.

"So after high school I wrote the examination and taught two years at $40 per month. I was at Eastern from 1910-11 and attended two summers. Just when I was sad over not returning to be with my class to graduate in 1912, Mr. Lord boosted my spirits and my assurance that if I would teach a few years I could save and be back—with the Loan Fund to supplement my savings.

"So I was with the wonderful class of 1916. The direction that a person can give to another is one grand item of real living and scholarships and loan funds should be multiplied over and over."

When the new elementary school was completed recently in Urbana, the editor of the Urbana Courier published an editorial suggesting that the "old-fashioned school marm" (Miss Wiley) who had been a teacher in the elementary schools of Urbana since 1916 be recognized with the honor of naming the school for her.

"The building," says Miss Wiley, "is of the modern ranch type and is located on a ten acre plot. The walls are in pastel shades; each room has running water; the kitchen and gymnasium are complete; and the furniture is blonde and lovely."

The occasion is not the first honor that Miss Wiley has received. In 1944 the PTA of Seal Elementary School celebrated her 25 years at Seal by naming the school library "Flossie Wiley Library."

In May, 1951, the Champaign-Urbana Business and Professional Women's Club named her as the first "Woman of the Month."

In June, 1952, the Champaign Club placed her name in their "Book of Golden Deeds" and presented her with a certificate.

She has been given a life membership in her own PTA, and her cub scout groups have shown her special gratitude with their official plaque of appreciation.

She is attending the summer session at the University of Illinois this summer, taking part in the Principal's Workshop.

Class of 1918

Roscoe C. "Rocky" Hampton, '18, retired from his coaching duties at Evanston High School, Evanston, Ill., on May 14 after serving in that capacity for 29 years.

Rocky, former basketball, baseball, and football star at Eastern began his Evanston coaching career in 1923 after having served as mentor at Henry, Ill., and Mattoon, Ill.

Speedsters

Seven seniors and underclass trackmen gave Eastern one of its best track teams in years. Coach Lewis' men lost only one dual meet and were fifth in the IAC meet on May 24 at Michigan Normal, Ypsilanti, Mich.

More than 200 of his former players and friends honored him at a dinner held in Evanston on May 14. He will retire to his farm near Mattoon.

James Gallagher, vice-president of the Chicago Cubs. Among other sports celebrities who attended was Luke Johnson, vice-president and assistant coach of the Chicago Bears.

Rocky's retirement plans call for farming his 127 acres and plenty of hunting and fishing. He was a chairman of the Lantz Jubilee Committee that honored Dr. Charles P. Lantz on May 18.

The Mail Box

Dr. James M. Thompson, head of the business education department, gave the Alumni office a letter which he had received from Bernita Bernice Shann (Mrs. Russell McLerran), '50, which reads as follows:

"Anchorage, Alaska
May 9, 1952

"Dear Dr. Thompson,

"I received your nice letter some time ago and was real glad to learn all the news from Eastern. I guess it is getting quite warm back in Illinois. In Alaska, spring clothes are just now beginning to feel comfortable. At night the temperature ranges between 25 and 30 degrees above zero. During the day it is about 45 to 50 degrees.

The sun shines real bright but we have no signs of any green life yet. It has even snowed some two nights this week. It covers the ground during the night and then soon melts during the morning.

"For about six weeks we had nothing but mud. We have two paved streets in Anchorage and the rest were hardly passable by foot or car. Now the mud has dried up and we have lots of dust. We have about 17 hours of daylight now and I really enjoy that. You never know when to go to bed unless you look at your watch and then we usually wake up about 3 o'clock when it gets daylight, too.

"Well, I've joined the working gals again. I work for the Army Audit Agency of Elmendorf Air Force Base and I am secretary to the Lieutenant Colonel who is head of the Army Audit Agency. I take dictation from the Colonel and from the Deputy Chief who is a civilian. I also answer the telephone and keep the Colonel's files. There are about 40 civilian and army personnel in the office. We do a lot of audits and the work is very interesting.

"A few Sundays ago, Russell, Debra Kay, and I drove toward Seward. Seward is about 150 miles from here. The road is just an ordinary gravel one but they plan on putting in a highway this summer. For about 15 miles from Anchorage there are just homesteads. The homesteaders live in very crude shacks or tents with wooden frames.

"Very little of the land is cleared for farming purposes, most of it is swamp and covered with pine trees. Moose are very plentiful and we saw several right along the highway. There is an open season for hunting them during the winter. Several of the homesteaders raise husky dogs and then enter them in the races during the Fur Rendezvous.

"After about 15 miles of homesteads, the road winds around cliffs on the one side and on the other side is the railroad track, the ocean, and then the mountains. We saw several waterfalls coming down the cliffs also. It was a very beautiful drive. While we were on our drive we saw a train bringing up new cars from Seward. Most of the freight comes to Seward and then on to Anchorage by train. The ocean becomes too frozen during the winter for the boats to get into Anchorage.

"Russell was fortunate and got a transfer out of the 196th Infantry into Headquarters and Headquarters Company at Ft. Richardson. He is driving a semi-trailer. That is certainly better than going on all these field problems for weeks at a time with the Infantry.

"Debbie is growing like a weed. She sits alone and has since she was 3½ months old. They certainly grow up in a hurry. We have a little blonde cocker spaniel puppy for her and she really likes her.

"Audra is finishing up the school year at Noble High School. Her husband (my brother) graduates from the University of Illinois this June. They don't have any plans yet.

"We recently bought a new trailer. It is a 1951 21 foot Viking Dreamboat with a 9x16 lean-to completely furnished. The lean-to is plastered and has a hardwood floor in it and all new furniture. We certainly are proud of it. We are renting our old trailer for $100 per month. The renter also pays the rent for the trailer space which is $30 per month, their own light bill, fuel oil bill, and gas bill. This probably sounds like highway robbery to you but it is mild compared to a lot of rentals here. A lot of people require you to pay about $2,000 for the furniture in an apartment before you can even rent the apartment.

"The carpenters are now on a strike in Anchorage. It puts about 2,000 men out of work and there were already a great number out of employment. The unemployment office processed 12,000 people through their office last month. Civilians just keep coming here from the states and the construction work is at a standstill so hence no jobs. There is no farming nor factories here, construction work, stores, and offices are about the only occupations available. A lot of the civilians have come up here with just enough money to get up here and now they can't find work. Several have gone back. You can make good wages up here but there just aren't enough jobs or places for all the migrators to live. Trailer courts are full and overflowing. A lot of trailers just have to park out in the country.

"I know you are busy at Eastern at this time of the year so I'll sign off now."

Sincerely,
Russell, Bernita, and
Debra Kay McLerran"

Role of The Teacher of Music in Counseling

(Dr. Leo J. Dvorak, head of the music department at Eastern, has been doing extensive work in connection with the counseling of students in the field of music. Working with various state and national organizations, Dr. Dvorak is outlining a program of counseling for the teachers of music. The following article was prepared by Dr. Dvorak to aid teachers of music to comprehend their role in counseling.)

by Dr. Leo J. Dvorak

Generally speaking, a teacher should aid a pupil directly or indirectly to gain in knowledge, in emotional fitness, in mental acuity and stability, in social and civic adjustment, in vocational preparation and in countless other aspects which pertain to his general welfare. A teacher of music may well assume the responsibility of guiding, counseling and advising students in music toward attaining these educational ends; ends which far surpass the immediate objective of excellence in music for most students.

It is the "extra-role" of guidance counselor that the teacher of music may serve the school, the community and even music at his highest level. Music teaching in the public schools must be attuned to the objectives of general education. The teaching of music must be geared to the needs, interests, capacities and student and its fulfillment must be reflected in his total pattern of living.

It is generally agreed that the study of music in the public schools is largely for cultural and avocational purposes. Many pupils have no genuine ability and little likelihood for success in music on any other level.

Many schools are staffed with a specialist whose primary duty is in counseling students. Most schools, however, are not equipped with this service and the students are consequently given little or no help.

In schools where a school specialist is available, the teacher of music can well be of considerable help with those who come under his supervision. Because of the innate quality of music itself, the teacher in the high school as well as the instructor in the college is at fault in a case of this kind. These students should be guided into fields other than professional study in music. If the job of guidance is done in the high schools, there is less chance for the pupil to become the victim of the fee hungry college teacher.

There has been much criticism aimed at the schools of recent years because of the lack of preparation of youth for modern living. The curriculum has been criticized because of aimless and non-functional courses and course-content.

The teacher has been subject to ridicule because of methodology and lack of perspective. The teacher of music could well strengthen his position by incorporating a program of guidance for his students to a more purposeful plan of learning. He would secure better musical results because his teaching would be in focus and because musical objectives would be merged with general educational objectives.

Student interest would be greater because the emphasis is upon musical satisfactions and enjoyment in a functional environment. Remote dubious rewards would be eliminated in favor of immediate cultural learnings.

In conclusion, the teacher of music must perpetuate his profession by guiding youth to the enjoyments of music. The majority of his students will become consumers. Some will continue their interests into avocational channels. Some will become the community church choir leaders, organists, band leaders and similar posts of a semi-professional character. Many of the more talented should be encouraged to choose teaching of music as a profession, and to many of us, this is the field most likely of achievement and which holds tremendous satisfactions for service. And then, too, there is the rare individual who may have the wide interests have included the implausible fact of editing a dairy magazine. The youngest of Grace's three children is Paul, now one month old.

1941—Rosemary Ann Donahue has been teaching in the Washington School of Decatur, Ill.

1942—Wendell Austin Blair is purchasing agent for the U. O. Colson Company of Paris, Ill. Married in 1942 to Julia Powell, Wendell is the father of four sons. Earl Lester Oliver was killed in a freak accident in 1946 not long after taking the Ph. D. at the University of Chicago. He was waiting at the New York Central station in Charleston for a train which was bringing his mother home from a trip when another passenger train hit a freight wagon which had rolled onto the tracks. A piece of wood hit and killed Oliver. Beulah Mabel Vandament is now Mrs. John E. Canoose of Fresno, Calif. Mrs. Canoose has taught for several years. Edward Cundiff Weir is teaching in the College of Education, University of Illinois, where he is completing work toward the Ed. D. degree. Mr. and Mrs. Weir have four children and expect another this year. Joseph Stephen Zupsich is teaching foreign languages at Beloit, Wis. Zupsich holds the M. A. from the University of Illinois. He has two children.

1943—Dario A. Covi is currently preparing a doctoral dissertation on Florentine painting for New York University. A fellowship at the Metropolitan Museum of Art expires this summer, following which he will attend a seminar on Flemish art of the 15th century at Brussels from July 7 to August 30 on a Belgian-American Foundation grant. Then he plans to travel and do research in Italy, returning to the Warburg Institute in London in November and to New York in January. He expects to complete residence requirement at NYU by May of 1953. Elizabeth Louise (Lee) Podesto is now the wife of Richard Meyer, a major in the Air Corps. Her current address is 321 General Ramey Dr., Ft. Worth, Tex. Lee has two children. Margaret Louise Rademaker is now Mrs. Margaret L. Ferris of Marshall, Ill. She has two children.

1944—Rebecca Jean Henderson, now Mrs. James E. Marlin, took the M. A. at the University of Illinois on a graduate scholarship and taught for three years. She has one child, Terry Lynne, 3.

1945—Delbert Ferrel Atkins is an assistant professor of math at the University of Richmond in Virginia. He holds the Ph. D. from the University of Kentucky, where he was elected to membership in Phi Beta Kappa and taught for several years. Interestingly, he will act as a ranger in Rocky Mountain National Park this summer. Wilma Jean Daily is the wife of George T. Tade, who spent the past year at the University of Illinois working toward the Ph. D. in speech. Mrs. Tade holds the M. S. from Indiana State Teachers College and spent five years as assistant professor of fine arts at Greenville College in Illinois. The Tades, who have a three year old daughter, live in Greenville. Merna Dean Fisher, now Mrs. Carl M. Sneed, holds the M. A. from Teachers College, Columbia, and last taught at the University of Missouri (1949-51). There is an infant daughter, Terry. Willa Frances Lane taught for a while in the College of Commerce, University of Illinois, now teaches at Chanute AFB while living at her parents' home near Potomac, according to our latest report.

1946—Luella Day is the wife of Everette Cooley, who teaches biology in Paris High School. The Alumni Office has no information concerning Thomas Mac Newell.

1947—Ardis Baily is the wife of Al Cachera, who received the M. A. in political science from the University of Illinois this month. Ardis taught music for four years, is now the mother of John Allan, 2. Edward Gerald Rennels, one of the few Eastern graduates who hold Ph. D. degrees from Harvard University, is now teaching in the Medical University of Texas, Galveston. Eleanor Lita Rochat (Mrs. Carl Stroud) studied for a time at the University of Illinois, was last addressed in care of the Dairy Inquirer, Gonzales, Tex. Arthur Edward Vallicelli took the M. S. at Northwestern University on an assistantship, now teaches science at Proviso in Maywood, Ill. The Vallicellis' have two sons.

1948—Elizabeth Ruth Baughman is a reference librarian for the Chicago Historical Society and reports that she has been supplying material on political conventions for Chicago newspapers lately. She took the M. A. in history at the University on a graduate scholarship in 1948-49. Wilma Guthrie married Jack Evey shortly after graduating and at last report was living in Corvallis, Ore. Marian Pearce Mills is working for the Lazo Oil and Transport Company of Aruba, Ned Antilles in the Caribbean. The Alumnus goes to her air mail special.

1949—Mary Elizabeth Sharrett has taught junior high science at Casey, Ill., since graduation. She has taken graduate work in educational psychology at the University of Minnesota and Indiana State Teachers College.

1950—Verda Lucille Hoehn has been teaching English at Medora, Ill., High School.

1951—The Class of '51 produced the biggest crop of honor students—ten. Clara Aglaia Fanakos has just completed her M. A. in social science at the University of Illinois on a graduate fellowship. Shirley Jean Fisher has taught a year at Potomac, Ill. John Edwin Greathouse has finished a year of work toward the M. S. in accountancy at the University of Illinois and expects to receive the degree in 1953. He has a part-time position with the Nolan Sims insurance agency in Mattoon. Sims was graduated from Eastern in 1930. Paul Koester is living in Ashmore and has a rural pastorate. John Neil Mason has been an assistant in geography at Indiana University the past year. Patricia Ann Maurer has taught business education at Ridgely High School. Marion Frances Railsback has taught in the Sidell, Ill., High School the past year but will move to Dixon, Ill., next year. She is beginning work toward the M. A. in Spanish with Marilyn Meyer, '51, at the University of Mexico, Mexico City, this summer. Alvin Louis Spries has been a teacher in the Danville Public Schools for several years. Nancy Watts Worner has done recated people—all valuable services, some of which the teachers colleges also incidentally perform. The universities now producing technical specialists and performing research services certainly merit the greatest of respect and support. But only the teachers colleges take as their one most essential responsibility, year in and year out, generation after generation, the supplying of teachers for the job of perpetuating democracy.

With three-fourths of the Federal budget given to arms or foreign aid, the squeeze is on—and any weakness of the schools that can be used as an alibi for ignoring their needs gets eager attention. So the schools—and the teachers colleges with them—get pressure to economize at a time when all costs are mounting, when the need for teachers is progressively, when a flood of students is at the door, and when pre-war buildings are crumbling as well as bursting—at a time, too, when despite our worries over taxes our astonishing income figure makes us an excellent market for new gadgets that have little to do with either war or a democratic peace.

In all, the picture is one of a complex of difficulties which portend formation of a vicious cycle of forces threatening the very life of American democracy in the next two decades. The public schools can be permitted to fail. They can be left with too few and too poorly prepared teachers and too few decent classrooms—and the conditions thereby created can lead to fewer good teachers still!

No capable young person, with offer of an "essential" job is tempted to invest four years of his life at a poorly equipped college to get ready to replace a glorified baby-sitter for 50 youngsters in a barren basement room. And there are spots in Illinois where this picture represents no exaggeration!

science and technology. Only a few educators have been able to follow the leaders.

The tragedy of the situation is that men of vision who have recognized the need for curriculum revision and a revolution in methodology are the first victims of the attack. Thus do people react to necessary change.

The schools are in need both of constructive criticism and staunch defense. They have a long way to go, but it need not be backwards, as most of the lay critics seem to think. To get intelligent defense and sound growth, the profession must show the kind of unity that enables the American Medical Association to achieve its purposes. It needs to recruit, screen and train its personnel just as carefully. And from that forward step many blessings would flow. Yea, even unto better salaries.

talent and the good fortune to make music his professional career. The teacher of music in the public schools can orient his program to include these ends as his specific objectives in the general education program. But to realize the whole program, he will need to guide his students through school and help them on to their goals through considered counsel. The high school student needs guidance, but seldom asks for it. The teachers of music must accept this obligation.
